

SOCIETY

Come, "fess up, You agree that in the diligent study and persistent practice of domestic science will be found the panacea for the ill that society is heir to. You are sure it will afford an outlet for the ambitious energies of woman and cause surcease from the "vaudeville" and nameless longing that fills her breast. The inexplicable yearning to go where her lord goes, do what he does.

"Back to the kitchen" is the slogan of the opponents of the new woman movement. And before the retrogressive influence can take effect, in the kitchen is to the fore right in the line of progress and the new women walk about their tailor suited and hatted, watching the preparation of food in the scientific way. It seems that even gloves may be worn in the kitchen of the new woman without being soiled. The last discovery of the allies of the new woman movement is one that has been long advocated by the socialists in their efforts to lighten the burden of labor that has lain too heavily on women's shoulders. An Englishwoman is demonstrating all over England that food cooked in paper bags is superior in quality, more economic, and eliminates the highest of dishwashing. As yet paper bags with clasps to insure air-tightness are in great demand in all the London shops—even the department palace shops—all are making a specialty of them, at 35c per hundred. The vegetables, meats, deserts are prepared, seasoned, placed in the sanitary receptacle, and enclosed in ovens. Of course, direct cooking is an important part in this also, as the bags may be steamed as well as baked. And in either process all essences are retained and instead of being less juicy and tasteful the food is deliciously flavored and more hygienic. Of course the paper holders are burned after using—and there you are. The modern kitchen, same fire, same water, same sink, same sink piled with cooking vessels, same labor, and best of all same the festive bacilli. The millennial dawn is at hand. The next innovation will be paper dishes to harmonize with the beautiful paper table cloths already in use for parties. Then when a fireless-cooked paper-enfolded meal is served and finished, the hostess nor the inside will be obliged to "view the remains" for hours during the clearing away process, but presently, a bon fire for the children's amusement and the labor goes up in smoke.

Next Friday afternoon the domestic scientists of the Woman's club are to demonstrate the skill of local chefs, and the inside will be the "piece de resistance" of the menu. This gathering and the reception to be tendered the following afternoon by Mrs. Clancy feature the week's social story.

Woman's Legal Status.
Although the program at the Woman's club Friday afternoon is listed under the department of domestic science, there is to be a most edifying discourse on "The Status of Women in Law in New Mexico," to engage the attention of the members a half hour or so before the demonstration of culinary skill. The speaker of the day is to be the only woman attorney in the new state, Miss Nellie Brewer, who above all people of the state is best qualified to elucidate this subject on which men and women of the latter should be better informed. Vaguely, women believe the laws in New Mexico give protection to property rights and legal liberties not enjoyed in many states, but an exposition by one who knows is desired and will be appreciated. After deliberation on the technique—or technicalities of the law, the assembly will be treated to dainty deserts as a demonstration of what the domestic science practitioners can do. Anticipating the nature of the law-talk on last wills and testaments, the program committee on this page suitably quotes Sage:

"Men dying make their wills, but wives
Escape a work so sad;
Why should they make what all their lives
The gentle dames have had."

Europe's Debt to America.
Another highly profitable session of the Tuesday club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alfred Frost.
The indefatigable students in this clique who meet semi-monthly to delve in the store house of history seeking the gems, thought, heroic souls and searching for truth are a band of twenty ladies loyal to the motto:
"New occasions teach new duties;
Time makes ancient good uncouth;
They must upward still and onward,
Who would keep abreast of truth."
The current events were discussed yesterday by Mrs. Cristy, Mrs. Mattson led the class study on Modern Europe, and in the absence of Mrs. Hickey, Mrs. Walker read an able paper on "Europe's Debt to America."

Five Hundred Party.
A select coterie of intimates will be the guests at a two table five hundred game tomorrow afternoon, the hostess being Mrs. Allen Waas. That the hospitality of Mrs. Waas is of a most cordial brand is attested by those who have enjoyed her charms and the small as well as the staid affairs are social successes.

Miss Becht to Entertain.
The young people of the Congregational church will assemble at the home of Miss Irene Becht Friday evening to participate in the regular Christian Endeavor society. Though the business will in order of precedence come first it will by no means be the feature of the evening. For on this occasion "the last shall be first," and the social enjoyment though second on the program, will be the real business of the meeting.

Miss Beven Entertains.
A coterie of school chums comprised the merry company at five o'clock dinner Sunday evening when Miss Mae Beven presided graciously as hostess. The purpose of the gathering at Miss Beven's was the introduction of two cousins of the hostess, Mr. Ben E. Simms and Mr. Ben F. Simms who lately came with their parents from Kentucky to reside in Albuquerque.
In a setting of pink and white flowers, with lace cards of hand-painted rose buds, and other accessories in like shades. Those indebted to Miss Beven for a happy evening are: Miss Emma Reesler, Genevieve Tierney, Julia Keisler, Messrs. Ben E. Simms, Ben F. Simms, Edward Rogers, Ralph Keisler, Joe Carrico, Frank Marron.

Mrs. Keen's Bridge Soiree.
Another of the gay bridge parties forming a pretty link in the social chain forged weekly at the home of Mrs. A. A. Keen occurred this afternoon. It was a four table affair in a setting of flowers, deliciously informal and affording a most happy afternoon to the favored invitees.

State Oratorical Contest.
All roads lead to Santa Fe, this week. Out of every city and hamlet in the state there is an exodus of the educators who are bound for the "City of Holy Faith" to participate in the annual meet of the Educational association to hold forth the three days of the week end. The culminating treat of the convention will be the intercollegiate oratorical contest in which will compete representatives from every institution of higher learning in the state. Each contestant has already won first honor in local matches, and will be girded and armored for a winning battle of words and wit on this occasion. The University of New Mexico will be represented by Colburn Cook, who gives much promise as a speaker. His subject is the same in which he won the preliminary contest: "An Objective Standard of Social Control." The depth of thought evidenced in this oration that deals masterfully with the problems facing modern society, and the style of delivery is calculated to place the orator in high place among those who will hold forth.

To Make Gifts.
The friends of the young ladies in the Sewing club of the Fourth ward are anticipating Christmas with much pleasure. For at each session of the club these days gifts are being fashioned for dispensation at Christmas time. The club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Guy Rogers.

Personal Paragraphs.
Mrs. Laura Benedict will leave this evening for Point Richmond, California being called to the bedside of her son's wife, Mrs. Roy Benedict, who is seriously ill. Mrs. Roy Benedict was formerly Miss Gertrude Hoppling of this city and for several years was the society writer for the Evening Citizen and for a short time wrote in the same department for the morning paper. Hosts of friends here will send out helpful, hopeful thoughts of the end that she may recover.
Mrs. Mary Nash left yesterday for Socorro, N. M., to remain a few days before starting on the longer journey to Glasgow, Scotland, where she will join her daughter, Miss Vera Nash who is a student in one of the prominent universities of Glasgow. Mrs. Nash and Miss Vera plan to return to Albuquerque at the end of two years when the university course is completed.
Friends in this city are happy to hear of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Saunders in Gallup. Mrs. Saunders was formerly Miss Olive Cline a university student and a teacher in the county schools. The new arrival is Richard Cline P. Saunders.
Mrs. Will Springer will leave this evening for El Paso to visit her sister Mrs. Ralph Hunt till after Thanksgiving. Mrs. Springer will return the first of December bringing with her Mrs. Hunt to visit in this city till after the Christmas holidays.
Mr. Raymond Sedgwick, a student of the university and at present principal of the Carlsbad High school was a visitor in the city Monday and yesterday, and naturally spent much time in the halls of his Alma Mater, renewing friendships with college chums.
Mrs. Len Leach returned the first of the week from a brief visit to Colorado.
Mr. E. Rothberger, the Denverite who is conducting such a furor in local society in consequence of being the groom elect in THE wedding of the year, will arrive this evening to share his fiancée the ante-nuptial festivities next week.
Mrs. Harry Athaworth of San Diego, formerly of this city, is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Edward Gross.

Educationally. The travel talk on Lisbon was also given by Mrs. Walker.
Recital by Dramatist.
Seldom to Albuquerqueans have the opportunity to hear so unique and powerful a monologue as the dramatist story of "Schemish" to be entered this evening in the Gold and Broadway church by Rev. Mark Wayne Williams of Milwaukee. Assisting in the interpretation of this thrilling narration will be a quartette of the city's ablest singers who will sing specially adapted descriptive music fitted to the parts where music is more potent than eloquence. In the quartette are Mrs. Ray Horuff, Miss Margaret Franklin, Mr. Andrews, Mr. Tenny, and Mr. Fiedler will act as pianist.

Missionary Program.
Every lady in the city who is interested in missions or has a twinge of thanksgiving sentiment at this season is invited to be present at the annual praise service to be rendered by the ladies of the Presbyterian mission society in the church parlors.
Following the rendition of the appended program, there will be an adjourned session for social enjoyment. The order of the program is: Organ voluntary—Miss Beryl Kenworthy.
Devotional exercises.
Paper—"The Lord's Money"—Mrs. Mordy.
Vocal Solo—Mrs. Reid.
Reasons for Thankfulness—Mrs. Caldwell.
Missionary story—Mrs. Elwood.
Vocal Solo—Mr. Clyde Ross, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Thompson.
"The Maid and the Mite Box"—Miss Grace Stork.
Thanks offering.
Thanksgiving prayer—Mrs. Little.
Adjournment for social and refreshments.

Delicacies Sale.
The cuisine celebrities of the city are desperately busy this week in the kitchens. The horn of plenty is being emptied into divers crocks and converted into the sweet dough that in turn will be shelved into ovens in which will be baked pies, cakes, tarts, and generation after generation of cookies. The exhibition of these cuisine creations will be held next Saturday afternoon and evening at the popular stand, the store of the C. and A. coffee company. The chefs are the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and their friends. The patrons comprise the general public, and sundry lunches and suppers will be easily provided if Sunday vacationists visit the booth of the White Ribboners the preceding evening.
By the way, it is a noticeable fact that the New Mexico White Ribboners are busy otherwise than in the kitchens of Albuquerque. How many have read the new temperance paper, "The Searchlight" edited in Clovis by Mrs. Nutter and associate editresses in the state. Prominent among the contributors is Mrs. Katherine B. Patterson, of Santa Fe, to whom the state W. C. T. U. owes more for its progress than to any other person in the southwest.

Royalty to Live in Regal Style on Steamer.
London, England, Nov. 15.—Work is practically completed upon the appointments of the royal suite on the steamer Medina, which will carry George V. and his wife, the English queen, to India for the Durbar, at which George will be proclaimed emperor of India.
Their majesties, accompanied by a large suite, will sail on the Peninsular and Oriental liner Medina, which has been especially chartered for this purpose and, for the time of the journey, converted into an auxiliary of the British navy.
The Medina, 20,000 tons, is the newest and best equipped liner of the P. & O. company and, has been completely remodeled and re-equipped for this voyage. The ship will be under the command of Capt. Chatfield, flag captain of Rear Admiral Sir Collis Keppel, and will be manned and officered by the pick of the British navy. Four first class cruizers, including the Cochrane and the Impetuous, will form the convoy.
The royal suites of cabins are on the upper deck at the forward part of the vessel—the king's suites on the port side, the queen's being on the starboard. Each suite comprises a sitting room, a bedroom, a small dressing room and a bathroom. Both suites are paneled to white throughout, but whereas the carpets and upholstery in the king's apartments are carried out in shades of blue, the queen's are in green. The furniture in the king's sitting rooms is of mahogany inlaid, and consists of two writing tables, a bookcase, several small tables and a number of settees and easy chairs covered in blue silk. Adjoining the king's bedroom, which is fitted with a wardrobe and chest of drawers in inlaid mahogany. A small metal hot-water heater occupies one corner, while in the other corner is a swinging cot, the invention of a London society young man, for use in very rough weather. The dressing room is on suite and both it and the bedroom are upholstered in blue and white, with carpets and curtains to match.

The queen's sitting room furniture, which is all of inlaid mahogany, comprises specially designed writing tables, bookcases, cabinet, etc., with settees and easy chairs upholstered and covered with green and white striped silk. Carpets and curtains match the furniture in color. The bedroom and dressing room of the queen is furnished beautifully in mahogany and carpets, hangings and curtains carry out the color scheme of green and white.
Ample accommodations are provided in different parts of the ship for the distinguished members of the royal suite and numerous attendants. The household suite of their majesties will include the Duchess of Devonshire, mistress of the robes; Lady Amthill, one of the ladies of the bedchamber; the Duke of Teck, elder surviving brother of the queen, personal aide de camp to the First Life Guards; the Earl of Shaftesbury, lord chamberlain to the queen; the Earl of Chesterfield, lord steward of his majesty's household; the Earl of Shrewsbury, premier earl of England and great friend of the king; Lord Stanfordham, private secretary to the king; Lieut. Col. Sir Frederick Ponsonby, equerry and assistant private secretary to the king; Commander Sir Edward Cust, equerry to the king; Sir Edward Henry, commissioner of metropolitan police, who was recently appointed extra equerry to the king; and Lieut. Sir R. Havelock Charles, sergeant-surgeon to the king, and principal medical officer on the staff of the king and queen during the visit to India.
The journey will be broken by two stops, one at Malta and the other at Aden. The ultimate port is Bombay and the arrival there is scheduled for December 2. The day of their majesties' disembarkation will be one of ad dress, processions, receptions and banquets, ending with a grand illumination.

During the entire sea voyage the king will remain in constant communication with London by means of a powerful wireless apparatus installed on the Medina. Everything has been done to insure the safety of the king and queen, not only on board of ship, but during their sojourn in India. The great coronation Durbar, which will be held in Delhi on December 12, is expected to surpass all previous Durbars in magnitude, gorgeousness and attendance, as this is the first time in history that the British rulers will present themselves in person to receive the homage of their people in India. There will be magnificent ceremonies and festivities following the investiture on December 14. Early in January a court will be held in Calcutta, and by the end of that month the king and queen are expected back in England again.

SIGHT IS RESTORED AFTER YEARS
California Rancher Sees Again After Seven Years of Total Blindness; Cause a Mystery to All.

San Bernardino, Calif., Nov. 15.—Henry Pennington, a farmer, who lives near this city, has suddenly been restored to sight, after seven years of total darkness. Seven years ago, while plowing, his team ran away, dragging him for half a mile. When found it was supposed his back had been broken, but later developments showed that, aside from numerous bruises and lacerations, his worst injury was blindness. Since then only flashes of light were all he could see.

Yesterday, while groping his way across a room, the sudden cry of a child, who had fallen against a hot stove, startled Pennington, and involuntarily he rushed in the direction of the scream, colliding with a table, and falling. As he arose he suddenly clasped both hands to his eyes, calling excitedly to his wife: "I see, Clara, I see, my sight!"

Black goggles were secured, permitting Pennington to enjoy his sudden restoration of sight without danger of injury. The doctors state his injury seven years ago had strained his spinal column and optic nerve, vertebra, producing the blindness, and that in the sudden excitement and jar caused by striking the table the injury was remedied.

Orange Crop is Late This Year
Fruit Eaten At Thanksgiving Will Be From Last Season, and Not From the 1910 Picking.
Advised from California indicate that the oranges eaten on Thanksgiving day this year in the east will be from the picking of 1910 and not from that of 1911. The San Bernardino Sun says:
With the orange crop at least three weeks late, it looked like the wintry east would forego the luxury of southern California's golden product on the Thanksgiving dinner tables, but Santa Fe officials now state differently.
Last year's crop is still lingering, and probably for the first time in history oranges will be for sale in the eastern market on Thanksgiving that are of the season just past.
The Santa Fe is shipping from three to five cars of oranges a day. Lemons are moving in larger quantities, from eight to ten cars of the fruit leaving daily.
Santa Fe officials are now gathering data on the size of the coming crop, and the figures reach close to 40,000 cars. There is grave danger, according to officials who have gone over the citrus fruit territory, of a heavy loss in the event of frost. With the crop maturing three weeks late, an early cold spell would catch the oranges with little sugar, when they are susceptible to frost more than later in the season.
Your winter haul! You can buy it cheap if you buy it now at Coverdale's Closing Out Sale, Commercial Club building.
